

âi °õĪ

°ĪĀ÷ Āj ¾ p¾ú
°ĒĒ - 2

Poonchittu

Bilingual monthly Newsletter

Issue - 2

Funded by

UnLtd*

Team

Nirmala Raju, Editor
Suganthi Venkatesh, Sub Editor

Send in your contributions and feedbacks to:

Poonchittu

4 Ellison Close

Crawley

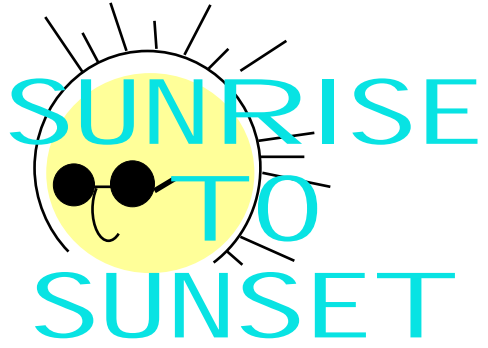

RH10 7UD

UK

Ph:0044-(0)1293 888 447

E-mail: chittu@nilacharal.com

Electronic version of Poonchittu can be read and downloaded from www.nilacharal.com

- Dimple Vijaykumar
(Age 10)

Sunrise slowly starts with a faint glow and then grows into a breathtaking scene with shimmering colours. The sky seems to turn into a magnificent painting that radiates priceless beauty. Fabulous textures fill every corner and another wonderful new day has begun!

Children come out to have their lunch and play outside in the warm sunshine. Dogs look around for biscuits from children to eat. Birds chirp happily and feed their little ones from crumbs of left over food. Everything is happy and cheerful and a definite zing in the air!

At last, the time has come to rest. The afternoon has ended and the evening has come. The children have gone home. The birds have stopped chirping. Dogs have gone to sleep. Not a sound can be heard.

Finally, the time for the Sunset has come. A tranquil twilight is made. A scorched scarlet sky appears. Cotton candy clouds come and set themselves out. The Sun turns into a blazing red, golden ball and slowly starts to go down into the horizon, fading away.

Goodnight Sun, until tomorrow.

Picture: Jyothi Prakash
(Age 13)

